AG TAXES HAVE GONE DOWN

How did that happen? Ask Farm Bureau . . .

During the Senate and Assembly's intense State Budget debate in late July 2001, Farm Bureau worked closely with other groups to obtain the most significant tax reform for agriculture in California history.

It took strong support from our grassroots network of county Farm Bureau leaders as well as a vigorous effort by Farm Bureau's advocates at the Capitol. The Ag Tax Equity Package includes:

- Exemption from all state and local sales taxes on propane for residential or agricultural use
- Exemption from 5.25% state sales tax on farming and timber equipment, machinery and parts
- Exemption from 5.25% state sales tax on diesel used in farming, food processing and food delivery

When people like you join Farm Bureau, it makes our voice at the Capitol stronger.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE SAYING ABOUT THE AG TAX EQUITY PACKAGE:

"Thanks to Farm Bureau's tireless work on these tax reductions, I estimate our family alfalfa and hay operation will get over $7,500 in tax savings. That money goes right back into improvements, equipment and the local economy. The way I look at it, this savings pays my Farm Bureau dues for the rest of my life."

Bill Eiler, Board Member - Siskiyou County Farm Bureau

"Adoption of this tax-equity package reflects what can be done when agriculture pulls together, when county Farm Bureau leaders and members make contact with their local legislators. Grassroots efforts work. It's not just the effort of a few, but the result of an education process carried out by many, one that has been going on for years with lawmakers, their key staff members and agency officials."

George Gomes, Administrator - California Farm Bureau Federation

"This legislation helps level the playing field for California farmers . . . and provides long-overdue incentives for an extremely vital segment of our economy."

Dean Andal, Former Board Member — State Board of Equalization
